WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A PROFOUND BUDDHIST PHENOMENON MEETS THE HEART OF CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY?

In Like the Stars Forever, Fr. Francis V. Tiso and executive coach Rob Michelucci embark on a fifteen-year journey of dialogue, friendship, and spiritual discovery. Spurred by an exploration of the “rainbow body”—the mysterious dissolution of the physical body into light at the time of death—the authors seek to understand this phenomenon not as a foreign concept, but as one profoundly illuminated by the Christian doctrine of the resurrection.

Building upon Fr. Tiso’s 2016 work, Rainbow Body and Resurrection, this compact volume takes the form of a personal “credo”—a raw, heartfelt exploration of faith that bridges the gap between ancient contemplative traditions and the modern search for meaning—structured into six “articles” of faith, followed by an illumination expanding on each article.

Seekers of all backgrounds are invited, through these pages, to deepen their own spirituality by exploring the universality of grace and the transformative power of the resurrection—ultimately recognizing the Light each of us comes from and carries. Proceeds from this book support Fr. Tiso’s ministry to migrant communities in the Diocese of Isernia-Venafro, Italy.
